Filter Packs – Brew from 1 gallon to 3 gallons of tea in a traditional autobrewer.

Non-Clouding – When brewed with hard water, tea will show solids (cloud). If filtered (soft) water is not available, it's best to use tea with fewer solids. This non-clouding blend is better used in hard water situations because these teas were picked based on their natural tendencies not to cloud.

Loose Leaf – Packed in a sealed foil pouch, loose leaf tea can be portioned when less than a three gallon batch is needed, using roughly one ounce of tea per brewed gallon.
